Maria Boyce, Chair of the Committee on Constitution and Canons began her report (A copy of the report “as adopted” may be found elsewhere in this Journal as “Constitution/Canons Adopted”; a full copy of the report may be found in volume I of the Journal of the 169th Council).

“Serving with me on the committee are Sam Griffin, the Reverend Lillian Hyde, the Reverend Nancy Ricketts, and David Harvin, chancellor, sitting Ex-officio. Each of the ten proposals reviewed today has been reviewed in detail by the Committee. The proposals include a new Preamble to the Diocesan Constitution and Canons. We will start with the proposed amendments to the Constitution. Amending the Constitution of our Diocese is a two-year process. During year one a proposed amendment is presented for a first reading. This year, three amendments to the Constitution will be proposed for a first reading. During the second year a proposed amendment is presented for a second reading and is adopted if it is approved by a two-third majority vote in each order, both lay and clergy. This year two proposed amendments are presented for a second reading and if adopted will become part of the Constitution.”

The Committee moved, on a second reading, the adoption of the amendment to Article 2.7 (The Council). On a standing vote of clergy and lay voting separately, the Bishop ruled that the amendment was adopted by a two-thirds majority. The Committee moved, on a second reading, the adoption of amendments to Article 4 (Officers and Elections) of the Constitution. On a standing vote of lay and clergy voting separately, the Bishop ruled that the amendment was adopted by a two-third majority.

The Committee introduced and moved for a first reading and printing in the Journal, three proposed amendments to the Constitution. Each amendment involves updating the language used in the Constitution. The first proposed Constitutional amendment is to Article 1. On a voice vote, the motion was adopted. A second proposed amendment was to Article 2. On a voice vote, the motion was adopted. The third proposed amendment was to Article 4 (Authority). On a voice vote, the motion was adopted.

The Committee proposed and moved amendments to Canon 3 (Congregations, Communities, and Schools). An amendment from the floor moved to amend proposed Canon 3.1 (Care and Use of Church Building) by striking the words “Church Building(s)” and inserting the word “Nave” in its place; by also inserting the words “as is fitting for the House of God” following the word “repair.” The proposal was seconded and brief discussion followed. On a voice vote, the proposal was not adopted. On a voice vote the original amendment to Canon 3.1 was then adopted. The Committee proposed that Canons 5.11 and 5.12 be moved from Title 5 to Title 3 as Canon 1.4 and 1.5 with the addition of Section 1.3 (Episcopal Missional Communities), 1.4 (Episcopal Fellowships), and 1.5 (Special Evangelical Missions). Subsequent sections would be re-numbered. On a voice vote the Bishop ruled the motion adopted.

The Committee recommended and moved the adoption of an amendment to Title V, Canon 6.3 (Episcopal High School). On a voice vote the Bishop ruled the motion adopted.

The addition of a Preamble to the Constitution and Canons was introduced and moved by the Committee. The amendment was adopted on a voice vote.

The report of the Committee on Constitution and Canons to the 169th Council was concluded.

Susan Kennard began the report of the Committee on Resolutions. (The Resolution concerning the election of a Bishop Suffragan may be found elsewhere in this Journal as Appendix C). The Bishop Suffragan resolution was adopted on a voice vote.

Following the adoption of the Bishop Suffragan Resolution, the Bishop made the following “remarks:”

1. The job description and team values, salary, etc., have been given to the Committee and a profile will be launched soon;
2. We are looking for a leader to join our team who will work with our team. I will review names as in a rector search – no misconduct, no financial misconduct, conflict, and someone who will work well with me;
3. “Search” applications will be open between Easter and Pentecost;
4. A process of discernment, including physical, psychological, and background will be a prerequisite;
5. A slate will be named in November with time for the Diocese to pray about the names;
6. A time for “nominations from the floor” applications will be opened, but no applicant previously through the process will be allowed;
7. The “nominations from the floor” applicants will have to go through the same process.

The Bishop stated that he, the Standing Committee and the Search Committee are agreed on these items. The Search Committee is composed of Chuck Treadwell as Chair; Eileen O’Brien, Kathy Westmoreland, Carvel Glen, Susan Duif, Gerry Seveck, Meredith Crigler, Gwen Chance, David Brannan, and Howard Castleberry. Merrill Wade is chair of the Election/Transition Committee with Gwen Chance as Co-Chair.

Chuck Treadwell spoke briefly to the Council. Prayer cards for the time of Discernment will continue to be further distributed. Those standing for election will be “Applicants”, not “Nominees.” The process will be open to all clergy, regardless of location.

A movie outlining the ministry of a Bishop Suffragan in the Diocese of Texas was shown.

The Resolutions Committee continued its report with the “Courtesy Resolutions” (The complete list of the Courtesy Resolutions may be found in this Journal as Appendix D). The Report of the Resolutions Committee was adopted on a voice vote.

Clergy new to the Diocese since the last Council were introduced.

Holmes continued its presentation. Delegates were asked to respond to three questions.

Sam Dodson, Chair of the Diocesan Finance Committee, presented the report of the 2018 Budget (The 2018 Budget Report may be found elsewhere in this volume as Appendix F), following which he moved the adoption of the 2018 Budget. The following amendment was offered: "That all individual compensation increases contained within the diocesan budget be capped at 5% and the resulting surplus be used to support rural and Hispanic congregations at the direction of the Executive Board and Diocesan staff." Discussion followed. The Question was called and seconded. Being non-debatable, a computer ballot followed. The result of the ballot was 256 in favor of the amendment and 331 opposed. The Bishop ruled that the amendment was not adopted. There being brief further discussion on the main motion, the 2018 Budget was then adopted on a voice vote.

Canon Mission Amplification

Friday, February 16, 2018

Thank you, Rt. Reverend Sir.

Right Reverend Sir, Clergy and Delegates, I would like to make the following report on behalf of the Committee on Missions and Parishes.

The vision of the Diocese of Texas, where it is focused on congregations, calls the diocesan staff, foundations, commissions, and bishops to be good stewards of the diocesan resources as we develop new faith communities in traditional and new forms, nurture the health and vitality of our existing congregations, and expand our campus ministry. We engage in this work as learners, where we try new initiatives, assess their impact and effectiveness, and repeat and adapt the ones that work.

I will, therefore, address each of these components. First, diocesan resources. We have been blessed with great abundance in this diocese. While we give thanks for the financial resources available for our work, I would also like to highlight the resources of time, energy, experience, passions, and giftedness of the people who serve on the Bishop's staff in the Diocese of Texas. The bishops, canons, and the Mission Amplification team are often the most visible in this work, but we are only able to serve you with the support, counsel, and service of the entire diocesan staff. The finance group ensures the careful stewardship of fiscal resources. The communications team celebrates our steps forward toward reaching the vision and helps us learn from one another. The transition minister works to match gifted clergy with congregations.

The wellness and care team works to create a healthy and safe church able to reach our goals, and the administrative staff support us in our efforts. All of our staff members work together so we can support the diocesan vision in your congregations. I offer my personal thanks and thanks on behalf of the diocese to those who work so ably to empower the ministry of others. You have a great resource here.

We partner with any number of clergy and lay volunteers, coaches, and consultants to expand the reach of our work, and I would like to thank those people as well for their work both behind the scenes and directly with congregations.

One area we are called to use our shared resources is in the development of new communities of faith, both church plants and missional communities. The diocesan vision originally called for 50 new missional communities by 2020. As many of you heard at the pre-Council meetings, there are already 67 missional communities across the diocese, and our goal is to have 75 missional communities gathering by the end of this year. Those groups are formed by a common interest in serving their community, nurturing meaningful relationships and cultivating Christian community for those who will not, or cannot, participate in a traditional congregation. Each community is creative and Spirit-filled, whether they pray and sing together in a nursing home, gather for fellowship as a group of gamers or a house church, praise God in a worship service for people with special needs, or serve others in laundromats, community gardens, or at a food truck. 67 is too many for me to show this morning – what a great problem to have. But ask us about them. They'd love to share their stories!

The diocesan vision also includes traditional church plants. Two fellowships established in 2017 reflect the diocesan commitment to broaden the scope of our ethnic and multicultural communities. First, Bishop Doyle gave his consent for the establishment and naming of Good Shepherd Episcopal Indian Church in 2017 as a fellowship. This new Episcopal community arose from the friendship with the Holy Immanuel Church of South India congregation in Houston reported at the 2017 Diocesan Council, when a number of the members chose to form a new congregation in the Episcopal Diocese of Texas under the leadership of the Rev. Roy Varghese. All Saints', Stafford, has been gracious in hosting Good Shepherd, and the two congregations continue to identify new opportunities to partner. I was privileged to attend their joint tri-lingual Christmas Eve service in English, Malayalam, and Hindi, a joyful, Spirit-filled model for other multicultural congregations.

Bishop Doyle also gave his consent to the formation and naming of the St. Philip the Evangelist Episcopal Church and called the Rev. Agook Kuol as its vicar. This congregation is the result of conversations and a developing relationship with the Sudanese Community Church in Houston, which subsequently became a member congregation of the Episcopal Diocese of Texas. St. Philip the Evangelist is currently hosted by Christ Church Presbyterian in the Bellaire area of Houston. The Rev. Kuol and the Mission Amplification team are working, however, to identify an Episcopal congregation that would be willing to host and partner with this community.

At the end of this report, I will offer one motion to seat these new fellowships, along with the fellowship of San Romero, Houston, at this Diocesan Council.

Also, in 2017, Bishop Doyle called the Rev. John Soard to lead a missional community and to explore a location for a future congregation to be planted in northeast Houston in the area along Beltway 8 east of US 59. Bishop Doyle has named this missional community Holy Family Episcopal Church.

Bishop Doyle has authorized the Mission Amplification team to discern from among five potential sites where our three 2018 initiatives will best be planted. The growth of the Kingdom in this diocese continues to amplify.

In addition to the founding of new communities, we are also committed to strengthening the 153 existing congregations. We know that the long-term health and vitality of congregations is greatest when they are connected to their communities and we have seen an increase in the number of congregations exploring such relationships. In addition to the increase of missional communities I have already mentioned, Hurricane Harvey has created opportunities for churches to partner with others to aid in recovery efforts as one step in improving the long-term health of their communities. In addition to sending people out to help, churches became distribution centers of food, water and supplies, host sites for volunteers, and meeting spaces for community leaders. Congregations used their existing structures – thrift shops, parish halls, church grounds, kitchens – in more outward-facing ways that helped their communities begin to heal. Shared hospitality between displaced churches and churches open to hosting them have created new connections among faith communities in this area and around the country. Churches from all over have reached out to churches here who share the same name and school children have written cards for our students and faculty. We have received any number of calls from congregations across the country offering prayer books, Bibles, supplies, money, and, most importantly, people and prayers. The Body of Christ is alive and well, and the work of the Kingdom amplifies.

The ability to support our congregations and deploy resources effectively depends on a strong relationship with you, their leaders. The Mission Amplification team is working hard to understand the current state of your congregational life and your hopes and dreams for the future. Supporting you is not a new goal, but we are now connecting with you in a more structured and intentional way. We can prepare the Bishops to have focused, fruitful conversations with the leadership during their visitations and we can connect congregations to the resources available to best support your work. Mission Amp will be in ongoing conversation with each congregation, and we will be a resource along with your entire diocesan staff, the congregational engagement team within EHF, and external resources for coaching and consulting. We are committed to helping you, regardless of your size, wherever you may be in the diocese.

While our hope is always to help congregations expand the mission to which they are called, sometimes our work is to help a congregation find a peaceful end. The Mission of St. Barnabas' Episcopal Church, Houston, founded in 1955, held their final service on December 31, 2017, after 62 years of faithful ministry. As Christians, we know that death is followed by resurrection, and St. Barnabus' has followed a path that will lead to something new for the wider Church. Therefore, with sorrow and joy and gratitude, in accordance with Title III, Section 5.10 of the Diocesan Canons, I recommend that the Executive Board of the Diocese, with the consent of the Bishop, dissolve this Mission.

The diocesan vision additionally calls for the expansion of campus ministries. In 2017 we added 4 campuses toward the long-term goal of 40. In addition to our five campuses with full-time missionaries, we now have 16 active Canterbury programs with part-time or volunteer leaders at residential campuses, community colleges and vocational schools. We will be working through a hub-and-spoke model that leverages the work of thriving campus ministries to support new and developing programs, a structure alive in Houston with collaboration among students from the University of Houston, Texas Southern University, and San Jacinto Community College.

As I noted at the beginning of my report, we come to our work in forming and growing congregations and faith communities prepared to try new things, learn from them, and expand the ones that have measurable impact. As part of this learning, Mission Amplification is taking time in 2017 and 2018 to reconsider some of our traditional events. We will develop metrics for measuring their effectiveness and consider alternative ways to facilitate change. The role of Mission Amp team members continues to evolve as valuable resource gatherers and connectors for you. We will continue to develop a team of congregational coaches and consultants, expand peer learning models, and facilitate the creation of peer cohorts in which mutual learning can continue over a period of time.

An example of this new model is a pilot program for stewardship coaching. The work is based on the reverse or “flipped” classroom instructional method. We will push the delivery of content outside the classroom so that time together can be focused on peer learning, application, and accountability. Congregations participating in this pilot have been asked to form stewardship leadership teams. Resources are provided for individual teams to study and discuss, then those team members will come together with other congregations to form a cohort for mutual reflection. Following that gathering, each team will work with a coach to make and execute a stewardship plan. The cohorts will come together again to share their results, experiences, and learnings. We are hopeful that we will see measurable results from these efforts, which we would then repeat with a larger group in 2019. We plan to adapt the model used in the pilot program for other areas of congregational leadership development. Our goal, in addition to improving practices in the pilot congregations, is to strengthen the individuals from around the diocese who participate, so that they can return to their communities prepared to share their experience and better equip their congregation to do the ministry to which they are called.

In all that we do, planting, building, coaching and learning, we want to identify the gifts of people and communities across the diocese which are available to one another, multiplying the resources to support the diocesan vision and mission as we build the Kingdom together. We look forward to serving you in new and creative ways that have a clear impact on the life of your congregation and empower you to be a life-giving presence in the communities around you. That is exciting work.

I have one motion for Council’s consideration:

On behalf of the Bishop Diocesan and in accordance with Title III, Section 5.11 of the Canons of the Diocese of Texas, I move that the following persons be approved as lay delegates of their respective Fellowships and be seated with voice, but not vote at the Council:

Gustavo Alvarenga, San Romero, Houston

Mayom Marek Anyon – St. Philip the Evangelist, Houston

K. T. Zacharia – Good Shepherd, Stafford

We look forward to celebrating the new status of Good Shepherd Episcopal Indian Church and St. Philip the Evangelist Episcopal Church tomorrow morning when representatives from these congregations will ring the Great Commission Bell.

Right Reverend Sir, this concludes my report.

APPENDIX E – 2017 FINANCIAL RESULTS – SAM DODSON

Friday, February 16, 2018

Budget 2018

Right Reverend Sir and members of council,

I'm Sam Dodson, a member of St. James' church, Houston, and Chair of the Finance Committee. It's my privilege today to present the 2018 Diocesan Budget to you. The budget can be found on pages 139-146 of the journal and I have some summary slides behind me. Some of you may have attended one of the pre-council meetings that included a presentation on the budget by our CFO, Linda Mitchell, and I will try not to be too redundant. I will offer a few high points before moving approval of the budget. Besides the 2018 budget, I would like to first remind you of what is not reflected in this budget. Our foundations have through a series of grants committed $5 million in post-hurricane Harvey support for recovery expenses related to the storm. We are planning to ensure that the receipts and expenditures related to the storm will be equal. The receipts and expenditures related to this effort will be accounted for separately since they are designated for specific purposes. Besides 2018, we expect that the expenditures for the hurricane recovery will continue for a few years. This is clearly a multi-year effort.

The 2018 budget of a little over $11 million is a breakeven budget. Revenues will increase by about $747,000, or 7.2% over the 2017 budget.

It's important to note that the increase in diocesan assessments is driven by modest

Growth in our parishes and missions and not by a change in the formulas used to compute assessments. While the insurance assessment did increase by about $69,000, the diocese continues to benefit from the continued $5 million contribution from the episcopal health foundation toward overall health care costs. Foundations support in the budget increased by 27%, with a large part of that increase related to support of the diocesan reorganization.

The slide behind me depicts and reinforces an important trend in our diocese. Diocesan assessments as a percentage of parish revenues have declined from a high of 15% in 2010 to around 8% in recent years. We certainly can be proud of this compared to the assessments of other dioceses.

Here you can see the major components of the revenue side of our budget. Included in program revenues is a more than doubling in Iona program receipts due to an increase in the number of students. We also expect to receive a $125,000 grant from the Episcopal Relief and Development fund to assist with the recovery from hurricane Harvey.

The key revenue changes are summarized on this slide.

On the expense side of our budget, total expenses increased by about $357,000 or 3.3%. One of the areas of change includes implementing compensation adjustments based upon the recommendation of the Remuneration sub-committee and approved by the executive board. A copy of the report of the sub-committee is shown on pages 135-136 of the journal. After receiving comments from the 2017 council and the executive board, the sub-

Committee expanded its composition by two clergy persons, reviewed its process and 2017 conclusions, conducted interviews with clergy around the diocese, and conducted a major review of clergy compensation throughout the diocese. The conclusion of this work is that the process and conclusions were re-affirmed and that the adjustments approved are fair and appropriate.

There are increased canonical expenses due to sending deputies to general convention. This expense is for our deputies. The bishop quin foundation has contributed $170,000 for the costs of hosting this event.

The budget also includes $40,000 for expenses related to the election of a new Suffragan Bishop. Costs related to the subsequent consecration will appear in the 2019 budget.

We anticipate an increase in group health insurance costs. Health insurance costs have been reviewed by the insurance task force, a sub-committee of the finance committee.

A major change in the expense structure of the budget relates to campus missions. Due to the increasing size and scope of this ministry, the Great Commission foundation will assume the future expenses. This decreased the compared to last year by over $740,000.

It's important to note that we increased our support of the national church by $106,000 to attain our goal of committing 15% of our budget to the national church. This seems particularly appropriate with our hosting of General Convention in July.

I hope you are as excited about this event as I am. We will have a great opportunity to showcase some Texas hospitality.

The expense changes are summarized on this slide.

Right Reverend Sir, on behalf of the executive board and finance committee, I move the 2018 budget.

Finally, the 2016 financial statements for our diocese and the related auditor's report--a clean audit I might add, is included in the journal on pages 151-161.

Right reverend sir, this concludes my report.

APPENDIX F – 2018 BUDGET – LINDA RILEY MITCHELL
Friday, February 16, 2018

Thank you, Right Reverend Sir.

It was great meeting so many of you in the Pre-Council meetings. Some of you even spent part of S u p e r Bowl Sunday with us. Thanks for listening at pre-Council--our warm up act for Council. But much more than that, thank you for your faithful leadership and the way that you work so hard for your congregations. I am so proud of what we all accomplished this year.

I am pleased to present the 2017 unaudited financial statements. I need to say that despite all its challenges it was, in some ways, a very good year. Now, I'm not Sinatra. I won't be doing a ballad. The crowd behind me is hardly a big band. In a very challenging year, our Diocese literally weathered the storm and, through stewardship, changed course to avoid eroding our balances. We did more with less. When we started the year, we had expected a tough 2017. We got one--thanks to Harvey, it was even tougher than we had imagined.

But, the finances of the Diocese actually held steady in such a tumultuous time. This is due to you and your faithful support and collaboration. It is wonderful to partner with you in the Diocese of Texas. So, all in all, it was a year of solid performance. We are well positioned to deal with an uncertain future.

I am pleased to report that the Diocese is in good financial condition. We remain financially sound. Performance was better than budgeted. When you approved the 2017 budget last year in Galveston, we had anticipated that expenses might exceed revenues in 2017. We thought that we would need to dip into our fund balances. Thankfully, that did not happen.

It is impossible to plan everything. We did not expect the visit we received from Hurricane Harvey which upended so many lives. However, Harvey did not impact the revenues of the Diocese. In your faithfulness, Churches--even those like Emmanuel at the center of the storm-- continued to pay their assessments in the face of devastation.

Before we start talking numbers, you need to know that for reporting purposes we track the contributions and the expenditures related to Harvey separately to indicate that these amounts have been designated for specific purposes. They are held apart from the ongoing operations of the Diocese. This facilitates comparison of results from one year to the next. We will report on those funds at the end.

Let's begin with the balance sheet.

There is a preliminary year to date November 2017 balance sheet and projected income statement in the Journal beginning on page 49. We talked about November in pre-Council. That warm up act is over. We have closed the books and are awaiting our audit. The December 2017 unaudited financials have now been posted on the EDOT website.

Let's take a look.

For the Balance Sheet assets, comparing 2017 to 2016, our cash and marketable securities balances have grown by $247,000. With volatile financial markets and tumbling oil prices as we've seen in the last few weeks, it is certainly prudent to have a nest egg. Accounts receivable from the foundations that are used for ministry are up by $222,000. In total, our assets grew by $686,000.

Looking at the liabilities, there are some blank lines there. We have no debt. We have not used our line of credit. In 2016, less than two years ago, we owed $350,000. We paid that off and have not borrowed since then. I am happy to report that we are debt free! Our net assets balance (that is, the amount of assets minus the liabilities) increased by $367,000.

That's the balance sheet.

Now, let's look at the revenues and expenses on the statement of activities, what some might call the income statement. Total revenues came in above the budget and expenditures came in below it. Yes, that's more money in and less money out.

Here is the big picture. We had more expenses than revenues in 2015.

Here is the big picture, A look at our financial activities for the last three years 2015, 2016, (both are accrual) and 2017.

At the bottom line, 2017 is better than all years. Looking at the line before special payments, 2017 is certainly better than the budget with $ 18,000 favorable (revenues exceeding expenses) compared to the negative 390,000 that we had originally budgeted.

Let's look a bit harder at the revenues.

The largest component of revenues is Assessments which have risen by 6.1% since 2015 that what you'll see in a moment.

Revenues

In 2017, total revenues exceeded the budget by $295,000. This occurred in part because we had better than anticipated results from Assessments. Despite the fact that 2017 was an awful time for so many in the wake of Hurricane Harvey, churches still continued to pay their assessments. Each year, we create an allowance for uncollectible accounts, our attempt to estimate how much of the assessment might go unpaid. Surprisingly, most everyone made their assessment payments, so we were better off than what was budgeted. That is even more incredible with the Hurricane. Thanks to all of you.

Foundation support exceeded the budget by $48,000. This is the net impact of unbudgeted grants to support the Church that were made by the Bishop Quin Foundation and Episcopal Health Foundation. These grants, each for $75,000, boosted 2017 revenues by $150,000. The Quin grant was for an East T E X A S missionary to assist with mission work. The EHF grant was for Bishop Fellows, clergy in transition who do pastoral work and visitations at the medical center under the direction of the Bishop. These two grants were offset by items that were under budget. Foundation grants in support of the Diocesan reorganization were $102,000 less than budgeted due to delays in Diocesan spending on reorganization.

Program Revenues were $56,000 over budget because the Iona program grew to three classes instead of the two held in prior years. Costs for it were higher too. In 2017, we held our first Missional Boot Camp. Today, 180 people have now been trained on how to start a Missional Community. This prepares us for the future. Other Income was over budget by $50,000 with greater than expected receipts from Diocesan Council, bequests, and contributions. There are corresponding expenses for these categories that offset these favorable variances.

That's revenues. Now let's look at expenses on the statement of activities.

Expenses

Total expenses were $114,000 less than had been budgeted. This is largely because Administrative expenses were lower than anticipated. Higher costs in the Office of the Bishop were offset by reductions in Ministry and Mission Amplification. Slightly higher ($5,000) Canonical expenses were offset by slightly lower costs for Service and Outreach ($4,000). These two areas were basically at budgeted levels.

Administrative expenses were $121,000 lower than had been budgeted. Several administrative cost items were over budget, but insurance costs were substantially below budget. The costs that exceeded the budget were Information Technology, HR Consulting, and Diocesan meetings.

Group health insurance costs within Administrative expense were $289,000 lower than budget. Insurance costs and coverage are reviewed by a subcommittee of the Finance committee, the Insurance Task force, led by Dr. John Hancock. In total, there are nearly 700 participants. Although premiums have increased slightly, insurance costs have declined in 2017. More people were in lower cost single coverage than budgeted. Vacant positions both in the Diocesan staff as well as clergy in parishes meant that there were fewer people in the insurance plan than budgeted.

Administrative compensation also under budget by $19,000. Some Finance positions were unfilled for a portion of the year. >Certain costs were over budget in Administration, reducing the impact of the savings in health insurance and compensation.

Information technology costs exceeded the budget by $142,000. Costs were incurred for additional network support after Hurricane Harvey when computer servers at the Diocesan offices were out for several days. Also, a project was undertaken to digitize paper records and create secure electronic files that can be readily accessed. After the Hurricane, we engaged a firm to scan decades of real estate, title, land, employee and other records for offsite cloud storage. We want to be ready and to know that this information is safe in the cloud and secure should a new storm come.

HR consulting costs were $44,000 over budget. An HR consultant was used to help while certain HR positions were vacant due to turnover. General office expenses such as office supplies, equipment maintenance, printing and telephones were over budget by a total of $26,000.

Mission Amplification Expenses were $52,000 under budget. Mission amplification compensation was under budget by $26,000. One of the administrative assistants was transferred into the Office of the Bishop during the year. Business travel, Christian formation and Intercultural Development were under budget by a total of $26,000.

Canonical expenses were also at budget (within $5,000 or 1 percent) with higher than anticipated costs for the Diocesan Council largely offset by lower costs for the Commission on Ministry and General Convention planning for 2018.

In total, Ministry Expenses were $58,000 under budget. Administrative assistants were transferred out of this department and into the Office of the Bishop. Those transfers coupled with vacancies in college ministry positions resulted in salaries that were $103,000 less than budget. This was offset by higher than planned costs for the unbudgeted Bishops Fellow positions funded by the EHF grant. Recovery ministry exceeded the budget by $18,000 as work continues to be done funded by a $50,000 grant that was received last year. Costs were higher than anticipated for the Iona School. Tuition receipts offset this cost. Conferences and clergy gatherings were over budget.

Expenses were $115,000 over budget in the Office of the Bishop due to higher lay compensation and some business and travel expenses. Lay staff compensation was over budget $61,000 as some administrative assistants moved from other departments during the year. Business and travel costs were $54,000 above budget as the Bishops were on the road due to the Hurricane and the introductions associated with transition of our new Bishop, Hector Monterroso.

In summary, we were able to weather the storm, and to continue to ready ourselves for tomorrow. Between the ill winds in financial markets and the potential for literal storms, it was good that we did not overspend our revenues this year. Once we recognized that there were opportunities to save, to continue to follow a budget that initially called for a $390,000 dip in our balance would only have been foolhardy. We knew we could do better this year and so we did better. Instead of spending just because it was in the budget, we recalibrated and contained some costs while identifying additional revenue sources.

Expenses Narrative

So...There may be a new storm coming. Market fluctuations based on inflation concerns could bring an end to this calm period of ever rising investment valuations. Although EDOT doesn't have a substantial investment portfolio, the funds that EDOT expects to receive from foundations are impacted in troubled times. It is also hard to predict what will be needed on hand as a safety net for reductions in plate and pledge that ultimately impact us all.

To recap, revenues came in higher and expenses came in lower. Revenues were $294,000 higher and expenses were $114,000 lower than budgeted. We continued to be frugal and worked to reduce costs in 2017. So, net assets grew to be more than was budgeted in 2017. We had originally planned to spend down some of the accumulated total net assets in 2017 and go negative. That didn't happen. We came in a little better than breakeven at $18,000 before the special accounts for the Hurricane and for General Convention. Through stewardship, our balances grew. Net assets as of the end of the year were up $367,000.

Besides our ongoing work, the Diocese and our neighbors benefited from kind and caring members of the general public who made donations to support our work for relief and recovery in our communities suffering after Hurricane Harvey. We also had funds received from the Bishop Quin Foundation to assist in the Diocesan General Convention to be held in Austin in July. The $1,228,000 total net assets shown on the December 31, 2017 balance sheet reflects $349,000 that was accumulated from both

Bishop Quin for the convention and from the public for hurricane relief. That $349,000 could soon be exhausted. General convention is just a few months away. We will expect this balance to fall in the future. We will be steadfast and plan for modest reserves to be available to deal with shortfalls that might come in 2019 and beyond. We look forward to serving you and counting our funds carefully. We want to do better with less.

Looking ahead, the 2017 audit will begin on February 26. The external auditors, Blazek and Vetterling, will report to the Audit Committee on EDOT and the Foundations in June.

That concludes my report on the 2017 financial statements, Right Reverend Sir.

APPENDIX G – CELEBRATION OF NEW CONGREGATIONS – JOANN SAYLORS
Friday, February 16, 2018

Rt. Rev. Doyle and Members of Council,

I am, as you know, new to this diocese since July of last year. I accepted Bishop Doyle's invitation to serve both because I believe in what our diocesan vision calls us to, and because we are living into it. Yesterday I got to talk about a lot of new things - new communities, new initiatives, and so forth.

But I want to make sure we are also celebrating together the faithful Kingdom work being done in our existing congregations.

This is a healthy diocese.

Just a few examples –churches which have opened second sites are seeing robust growth there.

The EHF Congregational Engagement team and the Mission Amplification team have helped congregations go beyond themselves to serve their communities, begin racial reconciliation, build cultural competency, and develop leaders.

Outside of the repairs required following Hurricane Harvey, approximately 25 infrastructure projects across the diocese were completed or in progress in 2017. Those congregations who did sustain hurricane damage, whether to their own facilities or to their membership, have displayed resilience in the midst of chaos as they stepped forward to help others outside their walls.

They have mucked out houses, offered spiritual care, distributed gift cards, provided funds for temporary housing, and given out truckloads of water, hygiene items, cleaning supplies, diapers, along with hot food.

Eight churches in the Houston area came together to offer resources that made a meaningful difference to people and congregations.

And that's just the tip of the iceberg.

This is a healthy diocese, and it is a joy to welcome those who are interested in furthering the diocesan vision and mission.

As many of you are aware, the Great Commission Bell is the symbol of the church planting and church growth vision in the Diocese.

While the bell resides in the Houston office lobby, it makes appearances at Council as well as groundbreaking and dedication services of projects funded by the Great Commission Foundation.

It is rung at Council to celebrate new Fellowships, Missions, Parishes - and to proclaim the spread of the Gospel in the Diocese of Texas.

At this time, and on behalf of the Bishop Diocesan, the Great Commission Foundation, and this Council,

I invite representatives of our two newest Episcopal Fellowships, Good Shepherd Episcopal Indian Church and St. Philip the Evangelist Church, to come forward and ring the bell.

First, I invite the Rev. Roy Varghese, vicar of Good Shepherd, Stafford, and Lay Delegate K. T. Zacharia to ring the bell, accompanied by members of the congregation.

Next, I invite the Rev. Agook Kuol, vicar of St. Philip the Evangelist, Bellaire, and Lay Delegate Mayom Marek Anyon to ring the bell, accompanied by members of their congregation.

Rt. Rev. Sir, that concludes my business.

APPENDIX H - BISHOP'S COUNCIL ADDRESS

The Rt. Rev. C. Andrew Doyle

Saturday, February 17, 2018

The world is changing-has changed-will change. In our generation, the pace, the consistency and the rolling nature of change affects every part of our life.

Technological, social, political, global household and corporate economics

"We live in world of disruption and distributed everything," says the futurist Bob Johansen, who works with Disney, Intuit, Procter & Gamble and Kellogg – a few small companies. "Cha cha changes," sings David Bowie, "Look out you rock'n rollers you are gonna get older..."

The world is volatile, uncertain, growing in complexity, and ambiguous. A VUCA world. In our diocese we continue to lead, to live into our vocation to serve. We are meeting this challenge by transforming Volatility into Vision, Uncertainty into Understanding, Complexity into Clarity, and Ambiguity into Agility. In the Diocese of Texas we continue to lead with vision, understanding, clarity and agility.

We have a mission, a vocation, to be present and serve. It is God's mission of reconciliation. Some might call it solidarity through the incarnation. It is God's mission of reconciliation with the world. God's mission has a church. We are that church. We seek this work of making real our lives as neighbors—people who care by sharing the good news of God in Christ Jesus and by doing the good news.

In the Diocese of Texas we are expanding our footprint. Specifically, I want to talk about congregations and communities. Though, through our hurricane relief efforts, our diverse and expanding congregational ministries of service, where we are neighbors to our communities and our Episcopal Health Foundation, through which we are affecting more and more lives—improving health across our 57 counties.

We are planning for a future world of change with an eye towards growth. We believe that it is our vocation to go, and by going, by sharing, by doing, we will grow both numerically and in our understanding of God.

We are growing our number of campus ministries from 14 to 20 today with the goal of 15 more. We are growing our number of missional communities from 25 to 67 today with the goal of 83 more. We are growing our number of congregations with three a year with the potential of surpassing our goal of 15 new congregations and heading towards 30. We have more members today than we had last year when we include our new church plants. While we know our Average Sunday Attendance took a hit because of Harvey and, we will have a better sense of where we are next year, we do know that 60 of our congregations have more people worshiping with them on Sunday mornings today than they did five years ago. This is up from 45 several years ago.

We are growing systematically across the Diocese. To do this we have oriented our spending from the foundations to support new initiatives and new communities through the Strategic Mission Grants, which can be applied for at any time of the year; supporting congregations in development; supporting new church plants.

Yes, we will have to move from having the Diocese be the sole planter of churches to having our congregations help us. We have three second-sites now: Good Shepherd on the Hill, Austin; Grace West, Georgetown; Christ Church South, Tyler; St. Andrew's Mosaic, Pearland.

We have a vision for the future that is one of diversity in kind in types of congregational life, in community life. We become stronger, healthier, more anti-fragile as we embrace a mission that is: distributed and agile.

Yet, our excitement is tempered by a looming crisis in leadership. The sower is sowing many fields. We are tending them. The harvest is plentiful but the laborers are few. Who will go for us? Who will go to tend the fresh shoots of God's sowed earth? Who will go to pull the rocks from the field? Who will go to shoo away the birds? Who will go to keep the vines from choking out the good? God asks in Isaiah 6: "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" I am asking—we are asking.

When we think of the ministry of the baptized, we begin at the altar and, we consider how we can get the baptized to help do "church" work—work oriented around the altar.

Now, this is good work ... good work indeed ... important and sacred work. We are not to leave the altar of God unattended an old prayer goes.

But the baptized are hearing God's call in profound ways and are trying to figure out how do they make their witness in the places where they work, in their families. How do they discern choices they have to make? The baptized are curious about their role, their work in the wider creation. And ... God is asking, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?"

Early adopters are hearing and going. We would not have reached 67 missional communities with more than 800 worshipping each week if it were not so. This is double the number we had worshipping in 2016. And we have trained more than 178 people to start these. God is calling still others to go and be and do in the world where they find themselves.

The baptized desire to go deeper into discernment. This is a different kind of equipping than Sunday School programs—talking head pedagogical models. The Jane Patterson and John Lewis models of vocation discernment at the parochial level are what will be needed more and more. There is a growing hunger for more than "being" an unabashed Episcopalian. This is about a deepening of Christian living, an enfleshment, a co—mingling of the Christian life into our very daily routines.

We will, we must spend time understanding the deep work of vocations for the baptized. Let me be clear. This is not a programmatic fix. This is a deep adaptive change for us and, in this same moment, we have a crisis growing regarding our ordained leadership.

Across The Episcopal Church we are retiring 400 full-time clergy a year and replacing them with only 200. TEC ordinations overall have fallen by 26 percent in the past six years. TEC ordinations to the priesthood have fallen by 31 percent and permanent deacons now make up 30 percent of all ordinations. TEC retirements are outpacing ordinations by 43 percent.

The Commission on Ministry, under the leadership of the Rev. Francene Young, along with Ana Gonzales and Bishop Dena Harrison have done an excellent job in the Diocese. They broke open the process creating the Discovery Retreats, using the Patterson/Lewis work, which is about the discernment for the baptized FIRST and for those aspiring towards clergy orders, SECOND. There is the Iona Collaborative with training for the laity. Between our work in Discernment and our work in transitions we have a more diverse clergy up from 1 percent gaining on 10 percent - which out paces the rest of the Episcopal Church. But we must get more than 50 percent to reflect the context in which we find ourselves.

More women – our ratio is about half men/half women in terms of present ordinations, but we are still only at 35 percent. And, our clergy are younger, with more than 45 percent under 50 years of age. The good news is that more than 68 of our clergy have more than 20 years left to serve. This is great news and everyone in our processes deserves a big hand for these statistics, including Bishop Harrison, Francene Young and Kai Ryan.

However, we need 337 clergy just to operate as normal today—that is full-time, part time and bi-vocational. And, there are not enough interims in the Episcopal Church. We have 15 vacancies, that are proving difficult to fill. And, over the last three years we could have accepted 15 new curates but we could not find them! We are hoping to grow. Our simple growth plan for the next decade will require 30 new full-time positions! Moreover, remember, we have 337 active clergy, which includes our bi-vocational priests and deacons. Fifty-four will retire in next five years; an additional 48 will retire in the next 10 years. In other words, 102 will have to be replaced. And, rough estimates reveal that we will need more 238 by the end of 20 years.

Part of what is happening is the speeding of the retirements. And, we ordain later on average than we did 50 years ago when the average age of an ordinand was in their 20s. This now makes up only a fraction of overall ordinations. In the 70s we were at 31. Today we are at 41. Older candidates for ordination mean faster rates of retirement and shorter number of years in ministry. This shortage, combined with the growth of lay-planted missions and the need for clergy to help plant, sustain and grow our congregations, means that we are headed towards a cliff regarding vocations.

And ... God is asking, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?"

We have a time crunch, too. Presently, it takes between eight and 10 years to move from discernment to rectorship. It takes one person approximately 64 hours of meetings with people to walk through the process just to get to seminary. This does not include travel, writing time or the conversations with the family. "You are thinking what????"

Meanwhile each Commission member is spending the same amount per person, too. Each meeting of the Commission on Ministry is roughly 272 people hours in preparation and participation, not to mention expense. Then there is seminary or Iona ... and the hours a person puts into this work, plus the financial investment.

Maybe, in other generations, when the church was growing, it just wasn't that hard to get to seminary. And it wasn't that difficult to find aspirants. This certainly has been an issue since the 1960s when it became clear we were going to reach the point of intersection where retirements and aspirants cross. As we grew though, we flipped it and made it harder and harder to get through the process.

Bishop Harrison has struggled under the weight of policy and Title III. And we have looked to ease it in any way we can. The processes we use today were created for a different church in a different age. We relied on a steady flow of seminarians. We only did discernment for clergy.

There are assumptions about the process itself and what works and what does not work—assumptions about what makes a good priest, assumptions about how we do things vs what people are learning in the wider world, about recruitment and placement. There are way better systems of discernment out there for adaptive leadership and aptitude that we are not taking advantage of. We are an old, even ancient, organization but our processes don't have to be ancient.

There are other factors, too. Congregational economies are a very real factor. It costs more to run a congregation today. Salaries are part of that. And, we have kept our seminaries from being places of discernment on our behalf so many people find our doors shut for discussion just about the time they figure they are called to serve the Episcopal Church. Often times our response is to require people to do additional unnecessary and repetitive work. There are assumptions about indebtedness and social and class structures that actually, if continued, will keep us from diversifying our clergy even more.

For instance, a black college student will have $7,300 more debt on average than their white peers. Then higher rates cause inflated debt for blacks and so the overall cost will almost double in the years to come according to the Brookings Institute. There is then a wage gap that exists meaning that it is even harder to pay back the debt according to CNN. Hispanic students track the same according to numerous surveys. Moreover, all Americans hold/carry more debt today.

If we are going to attract the very best and brightest and diverse clergy leadership, then we are going to have to address the realities of a changing economic burden of our future clergy. This may mean incentivizing hiring. Cutting the cost of seminary. Helping with school debt repayment.

There is also the financial burden uniquely placed upon the bi-vocational priests especially, and this needs to be examined and policy tweaked. There is also the financial burden of insurance for our clergy families. We need to examine the impact of insurance changes over the last five years and I think some mid-course corrections are in order, including a review of both the possibility of bi-vocational insurance and reinstating full family insurance in order to incentivize working in Texas and decreasing parochial cost.

Naturally, we need to review our compensation comparison formulas as well, examining each size and begin to help improve compensation for all our clergy – while insuring that we keep an eye on unequal pay between men and minorities and women. If we want the very best clergy we are going to have to get competitive regarding finances.

And, when we have great leaders who go through the IONA school and are called and we feel have the capacity for full-time ministry we do not have a transparent process with clear expectations. The truth is we will need to face both the process questions and the financial questions: issues of family insurance, good salaries and updating our comparison systems.

These are all questions and processes that need to be looked at during this time of transition to take the good that Bishop Harrison has laid and to build upon it. Our challenges are nothing more than challenges and, in the Diocese we can certainly deal with challenges and we have resources to do so.

To this end, I will create and lead a small team to discern the vocational work of the Diocese of Texas and its vocations. In 2018 we will study who we are, what we do, our processes and what we spend. In 2019 we will begin to reshape our processes to fit our new needs for growing the ministry of the baptized AND ordered ministry. We will make changes as we go, adapting and learning together. I believe our work will spawn other groups to help as this is a massive and intricate issue that touches all our lives.

The question remains though, “Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?” Just because there are challenges: financially, economically, numerically; that does not mean that God’s mission has changed or somehow we should shrink our mission to the numbers of leaders we have today; or that there is no longer a need for new churches and new communities; or that suddenly God’s gospel is going to be limited to the number of laborers in the field. God wants to know: “Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?”

There is one very important fact here that we have yet to inventory and that is that there are simply fewer people being sent out into the mission field by our congregations, fewer lay people, fewer aspirants for the clergy. Raising up the future missionaries of the Diocese of Texas is not a diocesan staff project. It is the work of every Christian community to join Jesus in praying for God’s laborers.

The harvest is plentiful, the laborers are few. Pray to the lord of the harvest to send forth laborers. And, what should we pray? How should we pray? And I would think that we should all begin to pray the words from Isaiah: Whom is God sending, and who will go for God?

I invite you to pray and to be curious about whom God is sending and who will go for God. The truth is that there are some in this very room that have felt and known God's voice for them. God's invitation to Go on God's behalf.

I want to offer you some advice given to because, as you may not know, I was asked to wait and then to reapply. When faced with many seeming road blocks, internal and external; when faced with my own inner doubts; when faced with a long road of discernment that, for me, lasted almost five years before I went to seminary, JoAnne's reassuring voice was clear, "Be faithful, and go until they tell you 'No'."

We must all pray—pray to the Lord of the harvest. We must pray for clarity. We must partner in order to faithfully engage the work of discernment.

Now, there is here something more though, something deeper. And, if we do not explore it we will be doomed to repeat the past with only new and better structures and policies. Even if we discern together, even if we continue to improve our work. As Bishop Harrison has done with Beth Fain's help and now Francene Young's help over these many years.

If the church sees its vocations as simply service to the church organization, then we will have missed something entirely important, failing to see that a vocation and a profession are not the same thing. It is all too easy, as it has been for years, to see that this is a question about the church's vocations, when in reality it always begins with the vocation of the church.

In other words, it is not about what we do for God and the church as ministers, it is about what is the church's work in the first place, for what purpose do we form people?

Richard Rohr wrote:

We worshipped Jesus instead of following him on his same path. We made Jesus into a mere religion instead of a journey toward union with God and everything else. This shift made us into a religion of "belonging and believing" instead of a religion of transformation.

My favorite example of this occurs in the Book of Exodus. After the revelation of the Ten Commandments in Exodus, God invites Moses back up the mountain. (Exodus 32:1-14) Moses is delayed in coming back down. He is gone for a very long time. In fact some translations imply it is an excruciatingly long time. So, the people do what people do all the time. In the absence of leadership and God they make an idol.

God gets upset at their idolatry. Moses gets angry and smashes the tablets with the Ten Commandments. Aaron offers a lame excuse and blames the people, scapegoating them for his failure of judgment. I have always assumed that this story is about totems for idol worship, maybe because I was so affected by the Cecil B. DeMille movie The Ten Commandments. I assumed that the Israelites chose another god - the golden calf. After all, Aaron does say, "Here is your god!"

The eleventh century Rabbi Abraham Ben Meir Ibn Ezra anticipated my confusion. He teaches that the idol was not made to take God's place, but Moses'. The idol was to be the means by which the people could commune with God, in the absence of a leader.

I discovered this interpretation in an article by rabbi Josh Gerstein.

He also quoted Rabbi J. B. Soloveitchik (one of the great 20th century Jewish thinkers) who wrote:

"They felt that they themselves did not have access to the Almighty. Only somebody of great charisma and ability could have access to him. The people sinned because they were perplexed. Moses has been gone for a long time... They did not understand that, while Moses was the greatest of all prophets and the greatest of all men, every Jew has access to God... Sometimes it is a sense of one's greatness that causes sin; sometimes it is a sense of one's smallness."

You see, the people didn't understand that God was personally in relationship to them. God brought them out of Egypt in order that they might be free and continue to be a blessed people and a blessing to the world around them. God did not need any go-betweens, not Moses and not golden calves.

The story of the golden calf is about the human tendency to believe that man-made items can resolve our fear, anxiety, sense of "lostness," despair and hopelessness.

The calf was supposed to be a conduit to God. But God's work of shalom is about relationship. God invites God's people directly to go on God's behalf, so God can do mighty works through them. No golden calf is necessary. No object is needed for the relationship between God and God's people to take root in the world - only a community of willing individuals.

I think we Christians have made our church structures, policies, even our ordinal and our priests into golden calves out of our well-meaning desire for relationship with the divine. Doing church has become the idol we hope God will use to save us. But the God we worship invites us into something quite different.

We are willing to say, "yes, I will go" to church. But to go on God's behalf into the world to relate with others? To be Christ's body in the world for God? God asks, "Who will go for us?" If we answer "yes" we have signed up for much more than church attendance and church work.

We are signing up to make communities that are not marred by endless jostling for authority and power. We are called to co-create with God communities where people can enjoy direct relationship to God in their relationships with each other. False dichotomies like "we and them" or "inside and outside" must and will slip away.

We think that the Church is a means to God rather than just one space where relationship with God can happen. But God's invitation into relationship through Christ and the cross can be lived out in any community. In other words, the way to God is in part through our relationships with our brothers and sisters.

Richard Rohr writes:

"In Christianity, the non-dual paradox and mystery was a living person, an icon we could gaze upon and fall in love with. Jesus became the 'pioneer and perfecter of our faith' (Hebrews 12:2), 'the Mediator,' 'very God and very human' at the same time, who consistently said, 'follow me.' He is the living paradox, calling us to imitate him, as we realize that [he] and the Father are one' (John 10:30). In him, the great gaps are overcome; all cosmic opposites are reconciled in him, as the author of Colossians says so beautifully (1:15-20)."

God has been telling us since the time of Abraham and Sarah that nothing is necessary but relationship(s) and the road.

Our work, our calling, is citizenship in a reign of shalom that has been prepared for us since the very foundations of the cosmos were set in place. Living outside of the false paradox offered by the powers will mean living into our completeness and our “otherness” as Howard Yoder said.

We will be more like the ecclesia of the apostles, the first motley crew of Jesus followers. We will be the community of peace imagined on the road to Emmaus. God’s call reaches all humanity in the risen Christ, raise up on the tree and on the third day all are drawn to him—a dragnet that catches all the refuse, all creation itself

God has called the ordinary people of God - the hoi palloi and made them the sanctum populus dei. God sends us in God’s name to go and bless God’s friends. We share this vocation of peace with each other. This vocation has sprung from Christ’s cross on Golgotha, and its branches reach the margins of society where the greatest misfits are found. We are invited to see our ordinary existence within the created community of God, and are called to accept our particular role in bringing about God’s future. There is a seamlessness to this salvific narrative that weaves together all things that were once divided.

In this way then, the Great Commission is not a New Testament “add on” but a foregrounding of a theme embedded in God’s dealings with humanity from the very beginning. God isn’t in the religion business. Equations of religious salvation are man-made idols that end with scapegoating and violence.

If God was that kind of lesser God, Abraham’s sacrifice of Isaac would have been accepted. In the end, the only sacrifice God accepts is the sacrifice of our selves. Paul emphasizes this fact as he exhorts the Romans to “Offer yourselves as a living sacrifice.” (Romans 12:1)

Religious institutions imagine vocation as a sacrificing of some other, something outside of the self. Our vocation from God and conveyed through scripture is a sacrifice of self, comfort, and safety.

In choosing ordinary people to go for God, God breaks human myths about power and authority. Through the handiwork of ordinary people invited into extraordinary work God inverts the mythic story of a new society made with violence. The vocation of the Church and can never be violence, but only an act of service and love.

Accepting God’s call means correcting the violent ontological distortion that haunts modern secular society. As long as we continue to define the world through “me” which is buffered and separate from “you”, then we submit to the ritual, religious bloodletting of ancient sibling rivalry.

The history of violence can only be undone if we contextualize our vocations in the midst of Christ’s one body first, and focus on our unique parts second. Partnering with God, we cease to see a partitioned world of buffered people. By rejecting this “I get mine you get yours” religion we stop mistaking our faith as a means of compelling others to become something they are not—me.

At the very core, saying “Yes” to God is about becoming a whole of paradoxically interdependent parts. God’s invitation to vocation erodes the compartmentalization between our religious and professional lives.

In the biblical worldview, the way of peace requires full participation. We aren’t one person contextualized by one space or set of relations, and a totally different person in another context. There is no such thing as professional holy people. We live complete lives in continuity with God and our vocation is equally operative in every space we inhabit.

This means if we have a vocation discussion that is only about training lay people for mission (by which we mean church work) and clergy then we have missed the much broader opportunity to become a people sent by God into the world. If we engage this as a church question about church vocations and the ordinal alone, we will in fact miss the opportunity to discuss the depth of the meaning of the question God speaks out loud to Isaiah: “Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?”

We must, together, long to animate the paralyzed vocations within the Church by destroying the notion that vocations exist at the altar where we face in with our backs to the world.

I love the Church, the Episcopal Church most of all. She has saved my life and guided me through very difficult times. She helps me understand God’s love for me, and God’s invitation into a new relationship with him.

The Church has been a gift to me and I want to share the best of it with others. But it must be transformed. In order to live in the new mission age that is before us the Church will have to recover an old understanding of vocation rooted out in the world where God makes peaceable community. The Church will have to discard her inward focus and become a guiding light in the world outside the walls of our precious buildings – no matter what we call them.

I want to share one last image of God’s invitation. Let us think about the Church as a boat. Early Christian writing, as in the homily attributed to Peter found in the letters of St. Clement, used this image: “For the whole business of the Church is like unto a great ship, bearing through a violent storm men who are of many places, and who desire to inhabit the city of the good kingdom.”

Church-as-boat grew in popularity so that by the fourth century, the nautical term “nave” was associated with church architecture. And, “nave” means boat. A church looks like an upside-down boat. When we play with this image, we think about church-as-boat being a refuge and sanctuary.

But when we turn to scripture, and especially the New Testament, the boat is a place from which people are called. Jesus calls the ordinary fishermen from the boat to follow him. And, at the end of the Gospels Jesus again calls them from the boat again to join him on the seashore and go into all the lands. Jesus calls Peter from the boat to walk on water, even though Peter doesn’t want to get out. Peter gets out and sinks. But, Jesus is there and lifts him up. That story is about Jesus’ invitation to get out of the boat no matter what it costs.

The invitation to us today is to get out of the boat and leave our church buildings. Boats also get people places. Jesus taught from boats, and used them to go from one place to another. But, boats were never used as shelter. They weren’t permanent places of God’s presence. They were a means of conveyance.

The body of Christ, the Church in this world, is a means by which God in Christ Jesus gets from one place to another. That church is made up of the living people who make up Christ’s body – it isn’t just a nave or a building. The Church is not a temple where God dwells and humans come to meet him. To make church only that or that at its best is to shrink God's arc of mission found in scripture.

We are the Church and we go with Christ into the world.

Finally, the New Testament makes clear that if we stay in the boat there will be stormy seas and we will argue. Staying in the boat too long will even put Jesus to sleep!

Living with an inward focus and making our vocations a means of perpetuating our own institutional structures is a sure way to end up in a family feud. The only cure for such sibling rivalry is Jesus and his mission.

Even though we are leaders in the Diocese of Texas, even though we have together over these last nine years taken amazing steps together, and transformed many lives along the way—including our own—we are only just waking up to discover the age of Constantine and the Reformation is over.

In this five hundredth year anniversary of the Reformation we have discovered that our efforts as a body have been wholly uncreative, repetitive and divided. We repeat the patterns and hope for different results. There is a gap between where we are and what we say we believe, but the potential for realignment with God's invitation is continuous.

God hopes we will bridge the gap between the Church and the reign of peace. He hopes to breach the church walls that separate us from creation. He calls us to put aside our fear and anxiety, gird ourselves with Gospel courage and step across the illusionary chasm that lulls us into inaction.

God is indeed asking God's self, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?"

And we will answer. We will answer in big churches and little churches, in city churches and country churches, we will answer as the baptized, we will answer as the clergy, we will answer as the Diocese of Texas.

God's invitation, God's call, God's question out into the abyss will not go unanswered.

WE THE PEOPLE OF THE DIOCESE OF TEXAS WILL STAND AND WE WILL SAY
WITH BOLDNESS
WITH CLARITY
WITH UNWAVERING VISION

HERE AM I
HERE AM I
SEND ME

Explanatory Notes

- 1) Bishop Quin Foundation approved an SMG grant to assist with the cost of the new Missioner to East Texas.
  - 2) Episcopal Health Foundation grant revenue and corresponding expense.
  - 3) Grants for Transition expenses are on actual expenses incurred.
  - 4) The IONA School held three full classes in 2017, as opposed to the two classes in 2016.
  - 5) Increased participation in youth events caused expenses as well as income from youth events to be higher than expected.
  - 6) Episcopal Service Corps participation was lower in the fall of 2017 causing reduction in revenue.
  - 7) Missional Boot Camp Conference is new in 2017; revenues offset related expenses.
  - 8) Diocesan Council revenue was higher than anticipated and it offsets the overage in related expenses.
  - 9) Changes to the housing allowance were made after the budget was finalized.
  - 10) Hurricane Harvey related travel contributed to the overage in the Business and Travel expense account.
  - 11) Grant revenue for this project was recognized in 2016 when the project was started. Unused funds were carried forward and expensed in 2017.
  - 12) The Recovery Ministry received a $50,000 grant in 2016 that was not fully expended. Unused funds from that grant were carried forward to cover expenses in 2017.
  - 13) IT Expenses are over budget due to office expansion, deployment of new software, and additional IT support.
  - 14) HR Consulting expense includes new hires recruitment fees. This expense is fully reimbursed by the Foundations and included in "Grants in Support of Diocesan Reorganization" revenue.
  - 15) Diocesan insurance costs are lower than anticipated due to decreased participation in the medical coverage plan.
- S - Special accounts consist of programs that are outside of the normal Diocesan budgeting process due to their unknown nature. They include revenues related to Hurricane Harvey disaster relief efforts, as well as the Quin Foundation 2018 General Convention grant.
